Alta. Cabinet Ministers Say Better Times Coming

That there would be troublous times ahead caused by the relief payments now given in these troublous times, was one of the terse remarks made by Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer, at a Board of Trade luncheon here in the Driad hotel on Monday evening. The Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works, was also a guest speaker on this occasion. Mr. Reid expressed the opinion that we are coming to the end of the depression. It is true that it has been the worst depression in the memory of those now alive, and it will be remembered in all probability as one of the worst depressions in history. But it is good to see that around Wetaskiwin there is a marked spirit of optimism prevailing. This district has not borne the force of the shock that has hit many other parts of the Province. Basic commodities have sunk to the lowest level we have ever seen. There is justified optimism however, and the wave of prosperity will soon again sweep across the province of Alberta. The Minister concluded by referring to the marked and steady increase in the price of wheat, the chief commodity of Alberta. Its price is marching steadily upward, and on that one thing he based his conclusion that we are now headed once again for normal times and prosperity.

Hon. O. L. MacPherson was also very optimistic in his brief remarks. He said the hard times have been bad enough but he thought that they have not been nearly as bad as the spirit of depression which has hit other parts of the provinces, and the eastern part of Canada. We have been maligned in the past few years for our western optimism, but he believed that the east could use a goodly portion of the same spirit today. It would be very much better for the Dominion if the western spirit prevailed to a greater extent in the east, and in fact there would not have been a west, if it had not been for the western optimism. He had never wavered in his faith that we are coming back to better times, and that there would be no breaking down of civilization as has been threatened by Communists and others. The Wetaskiwin district has not felt the pinch as much as many districts in the west, and referred to a few of the hardships in other parts of the Province.

Speaking of road development, the Minister of Public Works stated that there was a great deal of activity throughout the Province and during the last month much more dirt was moved than ever before by many thousands of yards, and if the weather continues favorable for another couple of weeks, the Government relief program will be pretty well completed. The work around Wetaskiwin was not given a very early start but was progressing well, and there was now every prospect that the people could travel by gravel to Pigeon Lake next summer. In conclusion, the Minister intimated it would now be more difficult to have new roads when commenced, under the relief plan, as it was now realized that the Dominion and Provincial governments had expended vast sums of money and those authorities deemed it time to go very cautiously.

The occasion of the meeting was the practical completion of the grading on the Wetaskiwin-Pigeon Lake highway, and all those connected with the project were complimented upon the fact that the graveling of the Pigeon Lake highway would soon be accomplished.

Other speakers who gave brief addresses were Ald. H. R. French, who on behalf of Mayor Howatt, welcomed the Ministers to the City; J. E. Fraser, President of the Kiwanis Club, H. Arnold, Reeve of the Municipal District of Bigstone, Richard Ballhorn, Reeve of the Municipal District of Montgomery, H. J. Montgomery, M.L.A., and Ald. A. A. Ellis, president of the Maple Leaf Bank Association. The President, V. E. Thompson, presided, and the community singing was led by Stuart Campbell, who also rendered a solo.

UNITED STATES PREPARING TO FEED UNEMPLOYED

Many of these unemployed have dependents. United States is now engaged in collecting the money that this great need requires. It is the biggest money-raising task since Liberty bond days, and the country has been organized on the war-time scale.

The Edmonton newspapers reported that a deaf and dumb ex-convict, R. M. Flattery, who threatened to take his own life, has been missing since Saturday afternoon. It is stated that some three weeks ago he took a job of harvesting near Wetaskiwin, and also spent some time in the Wetaskiwin hospital.

It was stated that the average score for bread received during the month was 84, while Mr. Uebell's sample was given 86.5%. The highest score for the month was 88%. The Robin Hood Mills Limited remark that Mr. Uebell had submitted a very good loaf.

ALBERTA WILL GAIN MILLIONS BY WHEAT RISE

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—Western farmers will benefit to the extent of $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 as a result of October advances in wheat prices, according to a rough estimate made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The bureau estimates that the increased prices may add from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 to the value of wheat stocks held in all positions in Canada.

In a statement prepared for Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, the bureau gives the cash closing prices of wheat at Winnipeg on October 1 and on October 21.

It is on the basis of this comparison that the bureau estimates at more than $8,000,000 the benefit to western farmers of advancing wheat prices.

"The farmers in the regions of high yields in central Alberta will benefit considerably since their threshing had been delayed and little grain sold as yet," the statement sets forth.

"The average farmer in this region has about 65 acres of wheat, yielding about 25 bushels to the acre, and the increase means an extra $145 to $150 to him."

It is significant, the bureau continues, that these advances in prices were made during a period when deliveries of wheat were the heaviest of the season (and thus the market was subjected to real hedging pressure most of the time.)

Remembrance Day

POPPY DAY draws near. We lift our eyes to

"Flander's Fields where the poppies grow
Amid the crosses row on row."

We let fall a tear, for I have a brother and you a son, and he a father, and she "a nearer one and dearer yet than all other" beneath those poppies; even so, for scores of thousands the wide Dominion over. This flaming poppy burns afresh the wound in keen Remembrance. As with the ordinary soldier who paid the supreme sacrifice so with the Chieftain of them all—Earl Haig—there springs from the sod that covers his remains some Flander's poppies all scarlet in living sheen.

I read that over against the grave is the grim spectre of ruins of Dryburgh Abbey, fit symbol of the destruction that wastes in the rage and turbulence of patriotism exercised in war. "The paths of glory lead but to the grave." His monument is no marble sculpture all graced in plaques of bronze bespeaking masterly achievements and adorning graces but a simple headstone of granite grey, the like of which may be seen by thousands marking the graves of the soldier in the village cemeteries of Scotland. Death having made a common level of rank and file the Earl's genius is further marked with humility since the inscription is likewise that chiseled on the stone of the ordinary soldier; it reads

"He trusted in God, and tried to do the right."

Encircling the plot is an array of offerings chiefly wreaths done in bronze, tributes from royalty and commoner of every kingdom and republic. One describes the great soldier as

"In peril confident, to duty devoted, in victory considerate."

On reading this I could not help but recall his considered co-operation with Marshal Foch as Chief, thus making victory possible, if not assured. But beyond this devotion to duty was his effective pity as he spent his strength in the days of re-establishment organizing relief the more especially for those maimed in the battle. Out of these efforts grew the industry of poppies made by the disabled soldiers and their sale for their benefit. Let us then, Buy a Poppy, pin it on, In Memoriam, and as we do so breathe a prayer that posterity may say of us as of him—

"He trusted in God, and tried to do the right."

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HOLD HALLOWEEN PARTY

The High School Halloween masquerade party under the auspices of the Literary Society was held on Saturday evening, Oct. 31st, in the Elks hall.

Practically all the students of the High School were present, as well as members of the School Board with their wives, and members of the public school teaching staff.

The evening began with a preliminary program, consisting of numbers from each room, followed by the delivery of yells from the various grades.

The best yell was composed by Grade X-A, and will henceforth be adopted as the official school yell for the Wetaskiwin High School. Following this, a number of progressive games were carried on, the prize for the grand aggregate being awarded to Alice Chappell. The costume prize for the most typical Halloween outfit for girls was won by Ester Somers, and for the boys by Dale Manley and Jim Odell. The comical costume prize was awarded to Minnie Ruppers. Following the supper, the remainder of the evening was much enjoyed in a short period of dancing.

The members of the Literary executive are very grateful to all who assisted them in any way towards making the party so enjoyable, and also to the Elks, who left the hall decorations up, and to Mrs. McMurdo who kindly furnished music for the evening.

TWO WETASKIWIN BOYS WIN PROVINCIAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

Congratulations are being extended to Gordon Ballhorn and Theo. Jovan, in the success which they achieved last Friday, when they went to the University of Alberta and competed in the final swine judging competition for Alberta. There are thirty-six swine clubs in the Province, and it is no small achievement for the Wetaskiwin boys to win out in the face of strong competition. This win entitles them to a free trip to the Royal Fair which will be held in Toronto in a couple of weeks, where they will then compete for the Dominion championships, which also entitles them to an Agricultural College Scholarship. The honor was won by a Vegreville team last year.

One of the early settlers of the Wetaskiwin district, in the person of Ferdinand Schmuland, passed away in the Wetaskiwin hospital on Sunday last. He was aged forty-eight years, and the cause of his demise was cancer. Deceased was born in Russia, and had been a resident of this country for about forty-two years. He leaves to mourn his untimely death his sorrowing wife, twelve children and a host of friends. The funeral took place on Tuesday, services being conducted in the Pleasant Prairie church by Rev. H. G. H. Klingbeil. The church was packed to capacity with friends who came from far and near to pay their last tribute of respect and the floral tributes were very beautiful. Interment was made in the Pleasant Prairie cemetery.

MRS. G. W. JOHNS

There passed away at the Wetaskiwin hospital on Friday last, Mrs. Edith Pearl Johns, beloved wife of G. W. Johns at the age of fifty-one years, seven months and twenty days. Deceased was born in Krossville, Iowa, and later moved to Nebraska, where she was married on November 15th, 1903. They moved to Oregon, where they lived for sixteen years, and four years ago the family came to Alberta, taking up their residence south-east of Wetaskiwin. The late Mrs. Johns leaves to mourn her loss, her sorrowing husband and seven children, all of whom were present at the funeral except one daughter, living at Myrtle Point, Oregon. The funeral service was conducted in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday by Rev. Wingham and Rev. Mackay. Interment was made in the Wetaskiwin cemetery.

JAMES PAUL FLETCHER

Vancouver, Nov. 4.—Two hundred carloads of wheat have been pouring into Vancouver daily during the past week, and the port's storage capacity is nearing its limit.

ZILKE PLEADED GUILTY TO ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Pleading guilty to a charge of placing an obstruction across the C.P.R. rails near Gwynne Monday night, last week, in an attempt to wreck a train, Gustave Zilke, farm hand, was sentenced to a year in jail by Police Magistrate Angus Thursday afternoon.

Prompt action on the part of W. G. Deliz, engineer, saved the train from being wrecked, the brakes being applied in time to avoid a smash, although the tie was pushed along the track for about 75 yards.

Zilke's hunger was partly instrumental in sending him to jail. The accused, resting after the work of placing the tie on the track, munched away at a biscuit for a moment and threw part of it away.

E. W. Florendine of the C.P.R. investigation department, and Constable Crouch of the Alberta provincial police, found the biscuit when they visited the point where the tie had been placed. Investigation revealed that biscuits of that nature had been sold to a man a few hours before at a Bittern Lake store.

Footprints were followed along the track for five miles and Zilke was located on a farm where he was working. He was taken to Wetaskiwin and his shoes were taken to the point where the biscuit was found. The shoes were found to correspond with the prints.

Confronted with this information and the biscuit, which police established had been sold to Zilke, the accused confessed to the crime and pleaded guilty. He was also sentenced to 30 days for an infraction of the same act, the terms to run concurrently.

Zilke is Polish, nineteen years of age, and came to this country about three years ago.

GRAVELLED HIGHWAY TO WINNIPEG LOOMS

Regina, Nov. 2.—The Trans-Canada Highway system is nearing completion, and the Prairies, at least, will have an all-weather gravelled route from Winnipeg to Cranbrook, B.C., in the near future. This information has been secured by interview with officials connected with the highway system and citizens interested in it.

General, Nov. 4. — Concern last Russia step into the Manchurian controversy, coupled with official information that Japanese troops had moved upon Tientsin, an important strategic point, darkened the League of Nations outlook for peace making on Wednesday.

The Wetaskiwin High School rugby team played one of the most successful games of the season on Friday against Red Deer to determine the right to play against Olds for the Central Alberta League championship.

Wetaskiwin had the kick-off and Red Deer had choice of positions. Wetaskiwin adopted the line buck which had proved so successful in former occasions as the chief play. Spencer and Miquelon bucked the line with speed and weight to force Red Deer right down the field. In the second quarter Moore obtained possession of the ball on a fake and made a sensational run to chalk up the first touchdown. Paton obtained the ball on a fortunate catch of an enemy forward pass and put Wetaskiwin well ahead by a second touchdown. Spencer, carrying the ball on his favorite buck, chalked up the third touchdown. Farnham took all converts in the most approved fashion. He is also credited with a kick to the deadline. His playing throughout the entire game was splendid.

Red Deer played well, but failed to register any points. They completed three forward passes. Wetaskiwin's forwards were all intercepted by wonderful Red Deer backfield play.

Red Deer's line-up was: Sharrault, Ainsworth, Grahman, Houghton, Jacobs, Sinclair, Carroll, Martin, Payne, Broch, Brock, Stephenson, Snell, Burns, Farnel.

Wetaskiwin: Miquelon, Farnham, Brown, Paton, Asp, Moore, D. Williamson, Duchak, O. Williamson, Weller, Spencer, Shaw, McMurdo, Enman and Appelt.

The Wetaskiwin team is to play McDougall High School team on Nov. 11th. This game will be worth seeing.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT
IN N.W. TERRITORIES

A country, covering two-fifths of the total area of Canada, that is free from poverty and unemployment, without a suggestion of Communism, is found in the "Territories," according to Col. J. K. Cornwall, veteran trader of the Arctic Circle and the North West Territories, following his return to civilization from the district of Great Bear Lake, where new mining developments have created great interest during the past summer.

In this land, there are about 1,100 white men, including trappers, traders, prospectors, rivermen and fishermen, and about 5,000 Indians and Eskimos. Doctors are the only professionals and, if they were not subsidized by the government to give medical aid to the Indians, they would be the poorest men in the country, because health prevails everywhere, Col. Cornwall told newspapermen.

DEMANDS OVERSEAS MILLERS
ACCOUNT FOR PRICE SPREAD

Some concern re the wider spread prevalent lately between No. 1 and No. 2 Northern wheats, compared to those usual in part of 1930, has been reported.

According to the Searle Grain Co., No. 3 has not gone down in price relative to the corresponding grades of foreign wheats on the world's markets, but a premium greater than usual is being offered for No. 1 Northern.

If the Canadian crop contains large amounts of No. 1, then the millers on the world's markets will not pay much of a premium for this grade over a No. 2. If on the other hand Canada has a relatively low-grade crop, and scarcity of No. 1, then the millers tend to bid strongly for No. 1, which gives a premium to that grade higher than usual.

Canadian wheat is not used abroad to make a whole loaf. It is used to blend the lower quality cheaper wheats of other countries. Should the wheats from other countries be of high quality, which does happen, then for blending purposes No. 3 wheat may be good enough, and the miller will not offer much of a premium for No. 1. When foreign wheats are of low quality, the miller is then interested in using the very strongest of Canadian grades for blending in order to make an acceptable loaf of bread.

Another factor is found in tariffs placed against the importation of wheat by certain European countries, and as the tariff is per bushel or per hundred pounds regardless of grade or quality, and as these tariffs are usually several times the cost of the wheat itself, it therefore, as a rule, pays the importers of these countries to pay a few cents more and buy the very highest quality Canadian wheat he can obtain, for the reason that the extra few cents for that grade is only a small proportion of the total cost he has to pay because of the very high duty. So again No. 1 may fetch an extra premium because of this demand.

All the above reasons point to the fact that the prices of different grades or the spreads between them are exactly what foreign buyers think they are worth. These spreads and prices are then accurately reflected back to the Western producer by the Canadian Grain Trade.

$100,000 STARTS ON NOV. 30

Opening on November 30th of the Alberta campaign in connection with the national Red Cross appeal was announced by Col. James Ramsey, head of the provincial organization from a meeting in Calgary.

The proposed objective for Alberta is $100,000, which is to be used for relief purposes in view of need evidenced in many districts.

Composing the provincial committee will be Col. Ramsey, chairman, with the mayors of Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Red Deer, Drumheller and Wetaskiwin; Mrs. C. B. Waagen, honorary commissioner of the Red Cross Society for Alberta, and E. J. Freeman, secretary.

While it was at first suggested that a number of associations should be represented on the provincial committee, it is now felt that these can be represented on the various district organizations.

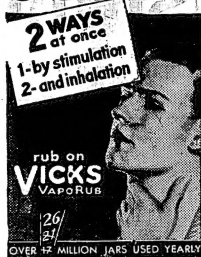

THE "DOLE" IN DETAIL

When Mr. Snowden's balanced budget was brought about, the dole fund was 400 million dollars in the red, and losing ground at the rate of five millions each week.

As to its distribution and methods of provision these facts and figures are available.

The insured worker receives an employment book, in which, during the term of his employment, his contributions to the insurance fund are recorded. Upon the loss of employment he must present himself at the Employment Exchange, and surrender his book. Thereafter he must present himself at the exchange several times a week and accept suitable employment if such is available. If no job is offered he receives the dole, and signs a receipt. Persons under 16 and over 65 are not entitled to receive the benefits. Persons over 65 years old are eligible to receive old age pensions.

The insured may also receive nine shillings weekly for an adult dependent (wife, husband, if he is prevented by physical or mental infirmity ity from supporting himself, dependent father, step father, widowed mother, etc.), and 2s weekly for each dependent child.

Employed men aged 21 to 65 years give each week 7 pence; their employer contributes 8 pence and the exchequer 7½ pence a total of 22½ pence about 45c.

Young men, 18 to 21, contribute weekly 6d, their employers 7d, and the exchequer 6½d, a total of 19½d, about 40c.

Boys under 18 contribute 3½d, their employers 4d, the exchequer 3½d, a total of 11½d, about 23c.

Women aged 21 to 65 contribute 6d weekly, their employer 7d, and the exchequer 6½d, a total of 19½d, about 40c.

Women 18 to 21 contribute 5d weekly, their employer 6d, and the exchequer 5½d, a total of 16½d, about 33c.

Girls under 18 contribute 3d, their employers 3½d, and the exchequer 3½d, a total of 9½d weekly, about 20c.

The weekly rates of benefits are:
Men aged 21 to 65 $4.25
Men aged 18 to 21 $3.50
Boys aged 17 to 18 $3.00
Boys under 17 $1.50
Women aged 21 to 65 $3.75
Women aged 18 to 21 $3.00
Girls aged 17 to 19 $1.87½
Girls under 17 $1.25

Under Mr. Snowden's balanced budget the unemployment provision shall be carried on without further loans, the revenues for this purpose are increased by a tax providing $50,000,000 yearly. The expenditure is cut by $129,000,000 in decreased benefits.

OUR BROTHER'S KEEPER

This period through which the world is struggling is more than an economic crisis. It involves more than a study of strategic plans to subvert the dollars which feed humanity itself is on trial. The civilization which we have evolved is undergoing a supreme test.

If there is such a thing as brotherhood among men, now is the time to show it.

Drunk with wealth, we have strayed a long way from the fundamental and eternal truth. We have been living in a house stuck upon golden stilts. And it has crashed.

In our agony and suffering we have discovered that Jesus Christ meant what He said. The Golden Rule was not a pleasant homily intended for the reward-of-merit cards with silk fringes on the edges and diamond dust shining on the snow scenes. It was a simple statement of the Eternal Law—the same law that keeps the stars in the skies and the world turning on its axis.

We speak of breaking the Law and Commitments. You can't break them; but they break you. "Love one another" was more than an admonition to light the path of virtue. It was the statement of an eternal principle upon which all law, all philosophy, all business, all ethics, all civilization rests. Like all the doctrines left by Christ, this was the sublimity of common sense—the finality of practicality—the only sure foundation upon which civilization can rest.

During these money-shuttled years we have tried each to go our own way alone. Years of greed and money lust have ended with this terrible lesson: that wealth evaporates and leaves men stark and with naked hearts.

It is for us to see that this terrible rebuke has not been in vain. For us to see that we rebuild the fallen structure on the rock of brotherhood.

This winter will be a period that calls for all men have of fortitude strength and sympathy. It is, for once, clear to the dullest mind that we can only help ourselves by helping others.

Out of this period of readjustment we can regain our souls. It can be a better world because of this period of hunger and sorrow; a stronger America and a sounder civilization if it brings to us a realization we are given the privilege of being our brother's keeper.

The remedy for our financial crisis lies not in laws, federal commissions, in panaceas or financial theories.

The sound and practical answer was told two thousand years ago in a sermon spoken on a mountain in Palestine—Los Angeles Times.

FACTS ABOUT HALLOWE'EEN

Hallowe'en is not a Christian, but a pagan festival of great antiquity.

In pagan days Hallowe'en was followed on November 1 by "All Saints' Day," when spirits, both good and evil, were believed to be on earth. This day is now known as "All Saints Day," a Christian festival in honor of the memory of all saints.

The Druids, in Britain, celebrated Hallowe'en with many strange ceremonies.

In the north of England Hallowe'en is known as "Nutcrack Night."

Popular belief, in former days, ascribed to children born on Hallowe'en the faculty of perceiving and holding converse with supernatural beings.

Long before Christian times the Romans celebrated, at about the Hallowe'en season, the festival of Pomona, the goddess of gardens.

Hallowe'en means holy eve, and is

THE "VOICE WITH A SMILE"

The talk had got around to spelling and difficulties some people had in making words have the same number and arrangement that the dictionary demands. I. A. R. Wylie spoke up and said that the most amusing thing connected with the subject she knew of was a telephone conversation of which she heard only one end. The place was a phone booth in London's underground. A cockney was exceedingly frate because Central could not understand the name of the exchange he wanted.

"Ealing, double 0 three five!" he bellowed. "Ealing, I say—Ealing! Or right, I'll spell it then: 'E' for 'enery,' 'a' for what the asses eat, 'L' where yer goes to when yer dips, 'T' for what yer sees wif, 'n' for what lyes heggs, and 'g' for 'gor' blimey! Get it nah?"

Edmonton, Oct. 30.—Public sittings to inquire into the cost of funerals in Alberta will be held at six central points in the latter part of November, at which Alex. Ross, commissioner appointed for the purpose by the government, will preside.

OLDS BOYS WIN
CALF CLUB TITLE

Edmonton, Oct. 30.—Finals in the Calf club contests staged at the university farm resulted in a victory for Olds. Three teams from the Juvenile Swine clubs battle for supremacy on Friday afternoon at the same time that finals for junior seed judges will be staged.

Trips to the Dominion finals at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto are the prizes all are striving for, and the winning team from Olds are Thomas Nead and Christopher Dumbley. Of the eight teams representing clubs from Claresholm to Pahrer, the winners came from the strongest club, one that established a record in Alberta with the largest calf show last summer when 35 fine calves, largely well bred Hostens, were exhibited. They were coached by W. Phillips of the Olds School of Agriculture.

Semifinals for eight of the 36 swine clubs were held in Edmonton Thursday afternoon, when teams from Mundare, Willingdon, Andrew, Myrman, Tofield, Daysland and Domely completed. Grande Prairie meets Wetaskiwin and Pincher Creek in the finals.

Gordon Ballhorn and Theo Jevne, who represent Wetaskiwin club, were victors in the Central Alberta semifinals recently held at Lacombe, while Pincher Creek team triumphed in the south at the Lethbridge semifinals. Edward Davies and Aylmer Stuckey stand for Pincher Creek in the final contest Friday in the swine club judging and oral contests.

In the seed judging finals Gordon Flewelling and Graham Campbell of Consort will meet Frank Shymko and George Fedluk of Willingdon, a district which last year sent out livestock club champions. These teams scored the highest marks of all teams competing at the 23 different junior fairs held in the province.

"Pack up Your Troubles— and Smile! Smile!! Smile!!!"

The famous war-time marching chorus might well have served as the theme-song for the events in connection with McGill University's 1931 Convention, as can be seen from the faces in the above group, which includes four distinguished Canadians granted honorary degrees at the great gathering in Montreal. E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Chancellor of McGill, (third from right), seems to be the ringleader in the cheerfulness movement. It would be difficult to find a group more typical of Canadian affairs; and just look how that infectious smile has done its work! Left to right: F. W. McLennan, eminent Canadian mining engineer; A. C. Rutherford, Chancellor of the University of Alberta; Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada; Mr. Beatty; Dr. Harvey Smith and Sir Arthur Currie, President of McGill University. The lower picture shows Mr. Bennett and Mr. Beatty, about to leave Sir Arthur Currie's house for the Campus, in a carriage drawn by a team of students. Note the "No Parking" sign, adopted by the "state coachman" as his staff of office. It was a memorable day. Everyone smiled—even the Weather Man!

SIGHT UNSEEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

FIFTH INSTALMENT

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and sister, Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeramy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously. With Johnson, he goes to the Wells residence and they find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them that her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

The French maid admits she was out at the time Wells was shot, telephoning from a nearby drug store. Johnson goes to the drug store where the clerk tells him the maid phoned to the Ellingham house, telling somebody there not "to call that night."

NOV GO ON WITH THE STORY

When I told him it was a case of suicide, he remarked, philosophically: "A lot of people get the bug once in a while, they come in here for a dose of sudden death, and it takes watching. It's a matter of the point of view," he continued more cheerfully. "And my point of view just now is that this place is damned cold and so's the street. You'd better have a little something to warm you up before you go out, Mr. Johnson."

I was chilled through, to tell the truth, and although I rarely drink anything I went back with him and took an ounce or two of villainous whiskey, poured out of a jug into a graduated glass. It is with deep humiliation of spirit I record that a housemaid coming into my library at seven o'clock the next morning, found me, in top hat and overcoat, asleep on the library couch.

I had, however, removed my collar and tie, and my watch, carefully wound, was on the smoking-stand beside me.

The death of Arthur Wells had taken place on Monday evening, Tuesday brought nothing new. The coroner was apparently satisfied, and on Wednesday the dead man's body was cremated.

"Thus obliterating all evidence," Sperry said, with what I felt was a note of relief.

But I think the situation was both erim him, and that he hoped to dis- count in advance the second sitting by Miss Jeramy, which Mrs. Dane had already arranged for the following Monday, for on Wednesday afternoon, following a conversation over the telephone, Sperry and I had a private sitting with Miss Jeramy in Sperry's private office. I took my wife into our confidence and invited her to be present, but the unfortunate coldness following the housemaid's discovery of me asleep in the library on the morning after the murder, was still noticeable and she refused.

The sitting however, was totally without value. There was difficulty on the medium's part in securing the trance condition, and she broke out once rather petulantly, with the remark that we were interfering with her in some way.

I notice that Sperry had placed Arthur Wells's stick unobtrusively on his table, but we secured only rambling and non-pertinent replies to our questions, and whether it was because the Wells matter did not come up at all I found a total lack of that sense of the unknown which made all the evening sittings so grisly.

I am sure she knew we had wanted something, and that she had failed to give it to us, for when she came out she was depressed and in a state of lowered vitality.

"I'm afraid I'm not helping you," she said, "I'm a little tired, I think."

She was tired. I felt suddenly very sorry for her. She was so pretty and so young—only twenty-six or washed up, we had found the key where she had stated it to be, and Arthur had certainly been shaving himself.

"In other words," I argued, "we can't stop, Sperry. You can't stop. But my idea would be that our investigations be purely scientific and not criminal."

"Also, in other words," he said, "you think we will discover something so you suggest that we compound a felony and keep it to ourselves!"

"Exactly," I said drily.

It is of course possible that my nerves were somewhat unstrung during the days that followed, I walked one night to a terrific thump which shook my bed, and which seemed to be the result of some one having struck the foot-board with a plank. Immediately following this came a sharp knocking on the antique bed-warmer which hangs beside my fire-place. When I had sufficiently recovered my self-control I turned on my bedside lamp, but the room was empty.

But, on Thursday night of that week my wife came into my bedroom, and stated flatly that there were burglars in the house.

I got out of bed and went down the stairs. But I must confess that I felt, the moment darkness surrounded me, considerably less trepidation concerning the possible burglar than I felt as to the darkness itself. Mrs. Johnson had locked herself in my bedroom, and there was something horrible in the black depths of the lower hall.

We are old-fashioned people, and have not yet adopted electric light, I carried a box of matches, but at the foot of the stairs the one I had lighted went out. I was terrified, I tried to light another match, but there was a draft from somewhere.

The second match went out before I had time to glance about. I was immediately conscious of a sort of soft movement around me, as of shadowy shapes that passed and repassed. Once it seemed to me that a hand was laid on my shoulder and not lifted, but instead dissolved into the other shadows around me. The sudden striking of the clock on the stair landing completed my demoralization. I turned and felt upstairs, pursued, by my agonized nerves, by ghostly hands that came toward me from between the spindles of the stair-rail.

At dawn I went downstairs again, heartily alarmed of myself. I found that a door to the basement had been left open, and that the soft movement had probably been my overcoat, away- ing in the draft.

Sperry had, I believe, told Herbert Robinson of what we had discovered, but nothing had been said to the women. I knew through my wife that they were wildly curious and the night of the second seance, Mrs. Dane drew me aside and made me promise I would tell her all I learned, after it was all over.

Miss Jeramy did not come to dinner. She never ate before a seance. And although we tried to keep the conversation ball floating airily, there was not the usual effervescence of the Neighborhood Club dinners. One and all, we were waiting, we knew not for what.

I am sorry to record that there were no physical phenomena of any sort at this second seance. The room was arranged as it had been at the first sitting, except that a table with a candle and a chair had been placed behind a screen for Mrs. Dane's secretary.

There was one other change. Sperry had brought the walking-stick he had taken from Arthur Wells's room, and after the medium was in trance he placed it on the table before her.

The first questions were disappointing in results. Asked about the stick, there was only silence. When, however, Sperry went back to the sitting of the week before, and referred to questions and answers at that time, the medium seemed uneasy. Her hand, held under mine, made an effort to free itself, and, released, touched the cane. She lifted it, and struck the table a hard blow with it. "Do you know to whom that stick belongs?"

A long silence. Then: "Yes."

"Will you tell us what you know about it?"

"It is writing."

"Writing?"

"It was writing, but the water washed it away."

Then, instantly and with great rapidity, followed a wild torrent of words and incomplete sentences. It is inarticulate, and the secretary made no record of it. As I recall, however, it was about water, children, and the words "ten o'clock" repeated several times.

"Do you mean that something happened at ten o'clock?"

"No. Certainly not. No, indeed. The water washed it all away, all of it. Not a trace."

"Where did all this happen?"

She named, without hesitation, a seaside resort about fifty miles from our city. There was not one of us, I daresay, who did not know that the Wells had spent the preceding summer there and that Charlie Ellingham had been there, also.

"Do you know that Arthur Wells is dead?"

"Yes. He is dead."

"Did he kill himself?"

"You can't catch me on that, I don't know."

Here the medium laughed. It was horrible. And the laughter made the whole thing absurd. But it died away quickly.

"If only the pocketbook was not lost," she said. "There were so many things in it. Especially car-tickets. Walking is a nuisance."

Mrs. Dane's secretary suddenly spoke. "Do you want me to take things like that?" she asked.

"Take everything, please," was the answer.

"Car-tickets and letters. It will be terrible if the letters are found."

"Where was the pocketbook lost?" Sperry asked.

"If that were known, it could be found," was the reply, rather sharply given. "Hawkins may have it. He was always hanging around. The curtain was much safer."

"What curtain?"

"Nobody would have thought of the curtain. First ideas are best."

She repeated this, following it, as once before, with rhymes for the final word, best, rest, chest, pest.

"Pest!" she said. "That's Hawkins!" And again the laughter.

"Did one of the bullets strike the ceiling?"

"Yes. But you'll never find it. It is holding well. That part's safe enough—unless it made a hole in the floor above."

"But there was only one empty chamber in the revolver. How could two shots have been fired?"

There was no answer at all to this. And Sperry, after waiting, went on to his next question: "Who occupied the room overhead?"

But here we received the reply to the previous question: "There was a box of cartridges in the table-dresser. That's easy."

From that point, however, the interest lapsed. Either there was no answer to questions, or we got the absurdity that we had encountered before, about the drawing-room furniture. But unsatisfactory in many ways as the seance had been, the effect on Miss Jeramy was profound—she was longer in coming out, and greatly exhausted when it was all over.

She refused to take the supper Mrs. Dane had prepared for her, and at eleven o'clock Sperry took her home in his car.

I remember that Mrs. Dane inquired after she had gone.

"Does any one know the name of the Wells' butler? It is Hawkins?" I said nothing, and as Sperry was the only one likely to know and he had gone, the inquiry went no further. Looking back, I realize that Herbert, while less cynical, was still skeptical, that his sister was non-committal, but for some reason watching me, and that Mrs. Dane was in a state of delightful anticipation.

My wife, however, had taken a dislike to Miss Jeramy, and said that the whole thing bored her.

"The men like it, of course," she said. "Horace fairly simpers with pleasure while he sits and holds her hand. But a woman doesn't impose on other women so easily. It's silly."

"My dear," Mrs. Dane said, reaching over and patting my wife's hand, "people talked that way about Columbus and Galileo. And if it is nonsense, it is such thrilling nonsense."

100 ALBERTA HORSES TO BE DRIVEN 900 MILES

One of the longest treks ever undertaken by a herd of horses, 100 animals have been driven from Milk River, south of Lethbridge, to Edmonton, and are now proceeding on their way to Peace River.

The undertaking, said old-timers, was probably unique in the history of Alberta. They expressed surprise that in the hundreds of miles covered before the herd reached Edmonton, only two horses had been lost.

Four cowboys are in charge of the horses. They are employed on the ranch of William Byre, Milk River. The horses are being taken to a large ranch in the Peace River.

The long trek, which will total almost 900 miles when completed, started at Milk River, October 12. Despite the fact that they have used highways but little and have largely made their way northwards through grazing lands, the cowboys declared that fast time was being made. They hoped to get the herd in safety to the Peace River district before the way was blocked with snow.

Neighborhood NEWS

NAVARRE

The threshing in this district is all done for another year.

Hallowe'en was unusually quiet in our district this year, the young people behaving very well indeed. The children of the Buleya school were very delighted with their Hallowe'en party which took place on Friday afternoon. The managing of the party was left almost entirely to three committees (amusement, decoration, refreshments) each composed of three pupils elected by the school, so the affair was educational as well as being very enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Dusen and Miss Gladys Nelson spent last Saturday in Camrose.

Oral Nelson of Camrose, motored up on Saturday night. On Sunday he took back his wife and small son, Donald, who have been spending some time with Mrs. Peter Nelson.

The Bears Hill children had their Hallowe'en party in the school last Friday afternoon. After the games and refreshments, the children were given a musical treat by Mrs. Chas. Condie and Mrs. Forbes Atkinson, who motored out from Wetaskiwin.

J. J. Schell returned on Saturday from a trip to the north country.

Mrs. Johnson and son Dan, returned to their home in Revelstoke B.C., on Monday, after spending a week at the home of Mrs. Johnson's brother, Emil Lundell.

A large number of the young folks of the Bears Hill district attended the Luther League meeting in the Swedish Lutheran Church parlors in Wetaskiwin on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Malmes, Sr., is spending a few days in Camrose at the home of her son, Dr. Andrew Malmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Aussenhus and little son, of Didsbury, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Pattison.

GWYNNE

The October meeting of the Sunshine club was held at Art Newman's last Friday, with a good attendance. One new member was added to the club. The next meeting will be held at Fred Kaiser's, Nov. 27th.

A pleasant evening was spent at E. Womack's on Saturday, when a number of friends gathered to bid Miss Short farewell.

Louise Maynard, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Ross, at Perth, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Herman Kilgus returned from the hospital on Thursday, and is doing nicely.

Miss F. Short left on Monday for the ast. She intends to spend about two weeks at Winnipeg, en route to her home at St. John, N.B. She has been with us in Church and Sunday school work for two years, and will be greatly missed in the community.

BONNIE GLEN

Miss Phillips, teacher of Bonnie Glen school, went home Friday evening for the week-end.

Mr. Moody pulled his threshing outfit home last week.

J. Edwards' brother and wife, from south of Calgary, are here on a visit. It's several years since the brothers had been together. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are staying at Muncey's while here.

Mr. Quick has been laid up the last few days. He was thrown from a horse and hurt his leg rather badly.

Some of the Hallowe'en ghosts were around on horseback this year, the better to make a quick get-away. Modern times of course. No real damage was done, but the ghosts who were visiting the school house, had a very advanced sense of humor.

There are two new families expected in the district soon. Buildings already going up.

NEW NORWAY

Miss Grace Borseth and Miss Eleanor Olstad spent the week-end at Roseland, with the latter's parents.

The chicken social held at Zion church last Friday night, was well attended, although the threshing was in full swing.

Mr. and Mrs. John West of Millet, were guests at the H. Bauer home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kolb of Wetaskiwin, and Mrs. and Mr. Moyers of Bittern Lake, were visitors at the J. P. Beller home.

Mr. Chas. Lindholm had the misfortune to get his leg broken just above the ankle last Wednesday, when a full granary broke out and some timbers struck him. He was a patient in the Wetaskiwin hospital until Saturday, when he was brought home and the broken limb is mending as well as can be expected.

A load of vegetables, consisting of potatoes, carrots, cabbage, etc., and some flour and grain was loaded at New Norway last week from surrounding neighborhood and was shipped south to some of our unfortunate neighbors who were dried out.

Drell Smith of Stettler, Mrs. B. P.

Smith and Mrs. J. Haggerty, Jr., and daughter Marion of Dorval, were guests Sunday at the E. Upshaw home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Trussler and son Harold spent last Tuesday and Wednesday at Gibbons, Alta., visiting relatives. Little Miss Maxine accompanied them home, after spending the past two months there with her aunt, Mr. Geo. Bauer and Donald Downing of Westlock, spent the week-end with relatives and friends at New Norway.

Mrs. Arlene Johnson of Calgary, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beller and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. J. Jacobson just recently returned from a trip along the western coast at Spokane, Tacoma, Vancouver, and various points of interest. They were very much delighted with the scenery along the Windermere trail through B.C.

Threshing is expected to be about completed within the next ten days. We sure have been blessed with favorable weather, only two or three days delay on account of a little snow and rain. The largest of yields among wheat and coarse grains is reported from various parts. Some barley going 66 bushel, oats as high as 130 bushels, wheat 50 bushels.

Mrs. J. Trautman was called to Washington last week to be with her mother, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Vanouck accompanied her mother, and is also visiting friends in Idaho. The children of the rural districts attended the Chautauqua at New Norway Friday afternoon to see Sue Hastings' Marionettes.

BATTLE LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and daughter Wilma, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Roy Hunter and children, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fleisher on Sunday.

Glen Carmichael was a week-end visitor at Battle Lake.

W. B. Fullerton who has been in Red Deer for the past week, spent Sunday at his home here, returning to Red Deer on Monday.

The fine weather continues, but the big game hunters are hoping for a fall of snow soon.

"It was a narrow escape," the explorer said.

The audience, enraptured, shouted, "Tell us about it."

"I was cornered by a polar bear. I had a gun but no ammunition."

"I thought of home and the tears came to my eyes."

"Yes, yes."

"The tears froze hard as rocks. I picked them from my cheeks and rammed them into my gun. I fired—"

"Go on—"

"The heat of the explosion melted the tears into a squirt of water which froze into an icy dagger as it hurled through the cold air."

"Don't stop."

"The dagger entered the bear's head and melted. The bear died from water on the brain."

Discussion as to whether to abolish the existing system of cream grading in creameries or to replace it with an inspection system whereby each local creamery would do its own grading under periodical inspection by the department of agriculture, featured a meeting of the butter manufacturers and producers of the province, held on Wednesday at the legislative buildings.

A movement is on foot to send a car of vegetables from the town and district to the dried-out areas of Southern Alberta. It is thought that it will be an easy matter to collect sufficient vegetables from the abundance grown here this year. A car was forwarded from Duhamel a few days ago and several other districts have generously contributed—Canadian.

Threshing is about completed in this district, and good yields are reported.

WOULD AID UNEMPLOYMENT

WITH INTENSIVE BUYING.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 31.—L. R. Smith, Wisconsin member of the president's emergency employment committee, has suggested an intensive buying campaign as a means of providing work for 2,500,000 men.

The scheme calls for a concerted purchasing campaign throughout the nation. He declared it would mean additional wages of $1,474,894,000 and move merchandise valued at $6,400,000.

Smith, who is president of the A. O. Smith corporation, would get pledges from industries to buy immediately 15 per cent of their annual requirements in materials, deliveries to be spread over six months.

Retail distribution would be achieved by agreement of every family able to do so to buy an average of $79 more merchandise than would be required normally in a three months period.

WEEKLY STOCK MARKET REPORT

The following is a weekly report from the Edmonton Stock Yards, as supplied to The Times for the week ending November 3rd:

Receipts: Cattle, 1055; calves, 212; hogs, 292; sheep, 641.

The quality of the offerings so far this week have been of the undesirable kind which is creating a rather dull market, as buyers are indifferent in their attitude towards this class of stock. There is fair movement in butcher cows and heifers at prices which are a shade lower as compared with the close of last week. Steers, particularly plainer kinds are slow movers and are also showing a weaker tendency especially heavier kinds.

Choice lightweight cattle on the fed calf order are selling from $5.00 to $5.50, bulk of the offerings from $4.00 to $4.50. Good to choice handy-weight butcher steers from $4.00 to $4.50, medium kinds from $3.25 to $3.75 and common to fair from $2.00 to $3.00. Bulk of the good handy-weight butcher heifers $3.75 to $4.00, good heavies $3.00 to $3.25 and common to fair $2.00 to $3.00. Good butcher cows $2.50 to $2.75, common to medium $1.25 to $2.25. Canners and cutters 75c to $1.25. Bulls $1.75 to $2.00.

A strong demand in evidence for all classes of stockers but particularly females. Supply this week has been somewhat better. Prices on the whole remain about unchanged with the general run of stocker steers and heifers from $3.00 to $3.50. Bred cows bringing more. Common kinds down to $2.50. The general run of stocker cows from $2.00 to $2.50, choice light stocker cows higher.

No material change noticeable in the calf market. Very few choice weaners arriving. The general run of good calves selling from $5.00 to $6.00, mediums from $4.00 to $4.50 and common to fair $2.50 to $3.50.

Hog market about steady. The long hauled Peace Rivers today sold at $4.50 for the hogs fed and watered, other carloads at $4.35 for the hogs fed and watered, with trucked-in and local at $4.25 for the hogs. Selects bringing a premium of 50c per hundred, and butchers discounted 50c per hundred. Cuts on the offgrade, remain unchanged and as follows: Heavies discounted 75c per hundred, lights discounted $1.00 per hundred, extra heavies discounted $1.00 per hundred, No. 1 sows discounted $1.00 per hundred, No. 2 sows discounted $1.25 per hundred, roughs discounted $1.25 per hundred, stags discounted $2.00 per hundred.

The quality of the sheep and lamb offerings inclined to be on the plain order. Prices holding barely steady, with lambs quoted at $4.00 to $5.00, yearlings $3.00 to $4.00 and ewes generally from $2.00 to $3.00 with choice light quoted up to $3.25.

ENJOYABLE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

On Thursday evening last, a host of relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lilledahl, assembled at the Swedish Lutheran Church of this city, at an informal reception given in their honor on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

The church was fittingly decorated in pink, white and silver. To the wedding march played by Mrs. Condie, the couple were ushered in by Mrs. Hanna and Mr. J. Vassberg, while Della Condie, as flower girl, presented the bride with a bouquet of carnations. A short musical program and addresses by Rev. Franzén of Edmonton, Rev. A. Wickström and others, made a very pleasant evening. Luncheon was served in the church parlor, the tea table being centred with a three-tier wedding cake (a work of art, and donated by Mrs. W. E. Pearson) and Mrs. E. Lundell presided at the tea table.

As a conclusion to the evening, Rev. Wickström, on behalf of those present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Lilledahl with a purse and a silver service, expressing the good wishes of all present for many years of wedded happiness. In reply, Mr. Lilledahl thanked their many friends for the gifts and good wishes and most of all the kindly feelings which had prompted this celebration of their anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lilledahl resided in the Twin Creek district for a number of years, and a few years ago moved to the Cherry Grove district, where they now reside. The number of friends present from these districts attested to the popularity of the bride and groom. Out of town guests were Rev. Franzén and Miss Edna Johnson of Edmonton. The following verse has been dedicated to the bride and groom:

Silver bells so softly ringing,
Silver bells so sweetly bringing
Memories of long ago
As they ring so soft and low.

Their tuneful charms bring our good wishes.

Their silvery chime you both enfold,
May life's path for you in future
Naught but good true fortune hold.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mahmas.

FAMILY RE-UNION AND BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On Sunday, November 1st, a happy family re-union took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felling, when about thirty-seven relatives and friends assembled to honor the latter's mother, Mrs. B. Purnell, on the occasion of her seventy-fourth birthday. A delicious chicken dinner was served, and much mirth was caused when the birthday cakes were cut, containing certain articles. The guest of honor was the recipient of a number of lovely gifts, and on behalf of those present, Mrs. R. Ward, an old time friend, presented her with a purse of money. Among those present were one sister, three daughters, two sons, fourteen grandchildren and one great grandchild of Mrs. Purnell. Those from a distance were, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Odell, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Thomas, Misses Reita and Florence, and Clarence Thomas, Mrs. R. Ward, all of Edmonton; Viola Purnell of Algar and Gordon, all of Ponoka; Mrs. B. Purnell, Miss E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. Felling, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Felling, Roy, Harvey and Myrtle of Wetaskiwin. After singing the Doxology, the gathering left for their respective homes and all joined in extending hearty good wishes to Mrs. Purnell.

According to the defendant sons, Peter Heck had farmed the land under agreement to divide it when the youngest son reached 21 years, but on his death in 1929 the youngest son was still only 19. The wife claimed that $1500 left her in the will was insufficient and applied for dower rights and dower.

The damages were not allowed. Bruce Smith, Edmonton, appeared for the defendants. C. H. Russell, Wetaskiwin, for the plaintiff.

GROWING, SELECTION AND PREPARATION OF GRAIN AND SEED FOR EXHIBITION
(Copyright, 1931)
By HERMAN TRELLE

FINISHING NEW SHOW SAMPLES AND REPEATING OLD ONES
Fairs are venerable. They were popular away back in the days of ancient Greece. The Romans recognized their educational value long, long before Caxton invented the printing press. They are even more popular to-day. The modern exhibition is one of nature's greatest advertising mediums. An up-to-date show parade is a most magnificent sight. It is a gorgeous display of fashion and splendour.

The fancy stock man grooms, trims and dresses his prize animals and birds in a most elegant manner before they are presented in the show ring.
Beautiful seeds, like animals, live. They merely breathe in a different form of nature. Seeds, like animals, too, may be adorned and trimmed, and finished, in a most artistic and harmless fashion to gladden the eye of everyone who may look upon them.

The act of correctly finishing off, or polishing a show sample of seeds, is the harmless process of smoothing up the external covering of the individual kernels, and at the same time removing some of the coating wherever it may be in excess.

The advantages are all in favor of the manipulating careful exhibitor, who does not overdo this exacting job. Every major show is overloaded with beautiful samples absolutely ruined by too harsh and untimely treatment.

The deceiving thing about over indulgence in this polishing act is, that the tricky, after effects are not immediately apparent. These effects manifest themselves gradually after a few days, or even after some weeks. Just about the time the hard-earned and beautiful sample is ready for shipment to the show, one may find that the seeds have taken on a different appearance, less striking, not so convincing. As with an apple which accidentally rolls to the floor as it is being patted gently and caressed by the good mother for the dinner table, the bruises may not be noticed today; but, alas! Look for the ugly brown marks in the morrow when nature puts in her unseen, silent chemical work of reaction. Nature has a counter action for every move that does not meet with her absolute approval.

Polishing, well done, "lives up" the individual kernels so that they slip closer and quicker against one another, thus leaving less air spacing. The result is more kernels to the bushel measure and proportionally greater mass density which, in what as an example, will produce greater weight per bushel.

The internal substance of any seed is always more dense than the external covering (as the brain of wheat). Therefore, it is at once apparent that the more one can reduce the outside covering, whatever it may be in excess, the greater will be the density or weight of the kernel in proportion to its volume.

Correct finish does not enhance lustre and add brilliance to any hard surfaced seed. The range of shading in color of the individual kernels seem to "melt" and "run" into one another. The result is more unified mass color, more apparent from a distance than when the observer is closer to the sample. Beware of tampering with any seeds which have not a hard covering, or those which possess a bloom or coating, as found on rye for example, which is always associated with that specific kind of seed.

There is not display of seeds, especially those possessing a coarse hull covering (such as oats or barley) which does not contain many individual kernels upon which are spots of various sizes, shapes, position and ranges of color. A good finish seems to have the tendency to subdue the detrimental, ocular impression if these spots.

It is quite common for oats to have large pink, pollen spots beneath the front bosom shield. These are natural deposits which have accumulated after the flowering stage of the seed. They cannot be removed. They are not objectionable.

These disadvantages of over-finishing and polishing, while perhaps not immediately detected at the time of processing, are so many that every new exhibitor should abstain from the practice, as much as possible, until he has found out through tests and mistakes by experience, just what, and what not to do. Never experiment with a portion of seed which one contemplates using for an exhibit. Use some representative, discard seed for this purpose. When the experiment is completed, set the seeds to one side for a while and take time to expect results. In many cases the writer found no apparent change until the cool of winter turned into the drying warmth of summertime.

The coating may, through overwork, develop "blisters" which affect color and vitality, and by the slow loosening and raising of the skin, cause a reduction in the weight per bushel measure. The end of oats especially begin to curl and "mush-room." The bosom front splits along the sides and exposes the germ seed underneath. This creates greater air space and where once the weight per bushel was heavy it gradually becomes less.

Vitality is weakened. This is especially detrimental at seeding time, if the natural, protective covering has been tampered with to such an extent that it is of very little value to shield the precious seed against adverse moisture, or soil, or temperature, or disease, or insect attacks. It is comparable to exposing a child to the severe elements without proper clothing.

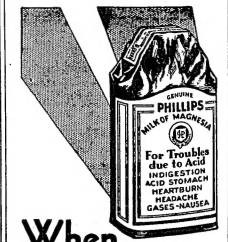

Assuming that the World Show sample has passed the scrutinizing eye of the hand picker and is complete in every way, suppose we journey with the writer through some of the simple and safe, natural processes of finishing off, taking the different kinds of seeds in order of their relative importance.

Wheat: Place the sample in large cotton sacks—about one-third full—slide and shake in an end to end motion, about thirty changes to the minute, for about three to five minutes at a time. Then rest the sample an equal length of time by fastening it out. This rest insures against a rise in temperature due to friction. Keep this up until one notices a shortening of the brush end of the kernel. The process is over done when the brush end is completely removed. Wheat should increase in weight about one and one half pounds per bushel and take on a lustrous shine.

Oats: Put only about half the amount in the sack as for wheat. Use the same process. Watch them very carefully, and when the slightest sign of whitening the bosom shield begins to show, stop. Clean out the dust and look them over again, and by a quick hand picking method remove any signs of damage, because there always will be damage done if oats are moved about in excess. Oats should become very slick, and should increase at least the same as wheat in weight. Caution: tender oats, such as Early Alaska, can stand only a very slight finishing process.

Barley: Handle exactly as oats but because of the tougher hull and awns, the process may be made more vigorous and extended.

Rye: The delicate coating of bloom on this seed cannot withstand any processing whatsoever. The sample should retain its silky, velvety appearance, and this can only be done by working it as little as possible.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food rots. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude medicines when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go, get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 50¢ a bottle—any drug store. (Made in Canada.)

from the very start at threshing time. Alfalfa: Just slide the tiny, hard alfalfa seeds in a sack in the same manner as wheat. There is not much danger of damaging a sound sample. Sweet clover is treated in the same manner.

Timothy: This seed should be very carefully handled so as not to remove the hull. The "sack" method has a tendency toward too much pressure. A little movement in a pail or a jar, and a thorough removal of dust, is about all that requires to be done to add a half a pound to the weight and increase the smoothness safely.

Flax: Nothing beyond a shake up and "airing" can improve the oily shine of flax.

Peas and Beans: Peas and beans will take on a tremendous shine when simply placed in a sack and rolled around on the floor and table.

By reasonably applying one or other of the above suggested methods one may finish off every kind of seed included in the World's Show prize list.

By all means forget the idea that there is any chemical, or some concocted means of procedure, to improve the color of different seeds, especially oats or barley. There is nothing to compare with the lasting, and true, and clean, results which one gets by simple, natural ways.

Final advice: Leave a beautiful sample alone at finishing time, unless tested and tried experience has taught the proper thing to do for betterment. With no exception, grain show judges look with favor upon, and give very careful consideration to, any beautiful sample which has not been overdone.

Before one contemplates showing an aged, "carry-over" sample in the World's Grain Show, be sure to make certain that the germination and vitality has not been appreciably weakened. What will keep for many years in a cool dry place where the air is not changeable. The writer has never been associated with the growing of Egyptian wheat taken from King Tut's tomb, but he has grown wheat from seeds that were sixteen years old and could detect no difference in their vitality compared to that of fresh ones. Oats were o.k. at six years. Barley, however, showed a weakness after three years.

Seeds that are carried over without being handled much, or better still if not yet prepared for the show, will make a much better appearance than those which have seen the light of day under many changes of atmospheric conditions.

From observation the writer is firmly of the opinion that the less a mass of carry-over seed had been disturbed, when stored under favorable, protective conditions, the better will be the chances to win in the show room.

A highly polished sample will lose its attractiveness much more rapidly than one which carries a finish to a less degree. But, always remember that an aged sample, even at its best, falls down to second place when pitted against a fresh one.

Any sample of seed begins to take on a uniform "overcast" of grey and tan as soon as summer sets in. This cast somewhat resembles that of over maturity, and weathering, which some new samples take on at harvest time. The condition can best be detected from a distance. This cast is much more uniform in the aged sample.

If two different samples of the same variety must be mixed be sure that the germination, the moisture content, the weight per bushel, the general appearance, and the processing are about the same in both.

It is poor business to mix seeds from two different years. Any old sample maybe much improved in every way by being given a complete screening and hand picking, but only a slight polish before again entering the show room.

The writer never sends a sample to a show unless it is in a double sack, and best of all, when the outer sack is made of some moisture proof odorless material. Tag it double, and plainly, sewing one tag on the inside sack. With the sacks and tags complete, pack the exhibit in a strong box or non-crushable container. There is no objection to placing more than one exhibit in the same container so long as it is made convenient and strong enough to handle.

Then when the time comes address the precious sample plainly to the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, and include the following in bold lettering:

PLEASE KEEP IN A COOL PLACE
May good luck go with the exhibit, and whether it wins or comes second, may the exhibitor show the true spirit of genuine sportsmanship.

Making Money in Retailing

IN THIS town are many retailers who could and should have larger businesses.

The right way to get on in business is to set sales mark for the year—$5,000, $10,000, $20,000 $50,000—whatever is reasonable and within one's financial ability.

Then the year's objective should be reduced to weekly and monthly amounts in accordance with the seasonal character of one's business.

Then the next thing to do is to calculate the number of sales transactions needed each week to produce the weekly sales objective. Thus, if one's average sales transaction is 50 cents, and if one's weekly sales objective is $100, then, clearly, the retailer must have 200 sales transactions every week. This may mean 200 customers.

So the retailer's job is to get into his store 200 customers each week—an average of 34 a day.

These customers to be secured at the rate of 200 a week require to be (1) invited, publicly and regularly, by advertisements in this newspaper, (2) informed about the seller's merchandise, prices and service—again by advertisements in this newspaper, and (3) so well served by the retailer that they will become "repeaters."

The main thing is customer attraction in required and pre-determined numbers, and this is achieved by interesting and warm-blooded advertisements in this newspaper.

Our advertising department stands ready to help retailers prepare customer-attracting advertisements.

3,008 DIVORCED IN HALF YEAR, AT RENO, NEV.
Reno, Nev., Oct. 31.—Ties that fettered more than 3,000 unhappily married couples were severed by the Reno courts during the first half year of Nevada's now six weeks divorce law.

During the same six months it is estimated that Reno divorce lawyers were enriched by nearly $500,000 and approximately $125,000 was paid out in court and filing fees.

The 3,217 divorce complaints, filed in Reno during the past six months alone exceeded by more than 1,000 the high total for any preceding 12 months in the history of Washoe county. A corresponding increase was noted in several of the 16 other counties in Nevada.

LIBRARY NOTES

Recent additions to the public

Library and what they are about.

"Visitors at the Flower Patch" by Flora Klickmann. The attraction of this book lies in the absolute riot of country lore, the colors, scents, sounds and even the silences of a delightful garden on the heights above

Tintern Abbey, the atmosphere of which Miss Klickmann has such a gift of conveying.

"Her Son's Wife" by Dorothy Can-field. In this story we have the mother who is not discouraged by any disaster, and when her son brings home a lazy good for nothing wife she rises valiantly to every occasion.

"What Happened to Mary," by Robt.

Brown; "The Night of the Wedding,"

C. N. and A. M. Williamson; "Tomorrow Morning," by Anne Parrish;

"Empty Hands," by Arthur Stringer.

Members of the library must not lend books out of the home to others as this only leads to confusion in the marking of the cards and makes the member liable for the fines.
